FORT MYER HEIGHTS-NEW THINGS ARE happening every day to increase the value of these lots. This week the Stephens R. R. Syndicate (who have recently invested $25,000,000 in Washington R.R.) purchased the Fails Church and Arlington relironds and will connect these lines with the Metropolitan by a line of electric carriages until the cars cross the river and run directly over the city tracks, making a continuous ride from all parts of the city to Fort Myer Heights. Another new thing this week, the government has arranged for an electric plant at Fort Myer to light up the military post and Military road, all of which border on Fort Myer Heights. Another new project, the Robert E. Lee Menument Association of D. C. selected a sight on the Military road for a $25,000 monument of Robert E. Lee. Remember, we also have new court house, 3 electric R.R., 1 steam R.R. Government is drawing plans for new memorial bridge. A bill is new in Congress to take this section into the city limits. And the many millions expended by the government on Fort Myer and Arlington have made this the most beautiful spot around our national capital.

Lots 5,000 to 50,000 sq. ft., on Military road, 10c. a sq. ft.; other lots, 8 to 20c. a sq. ft.; terms, $10 monthly on each lot, or one-third cash, bal, 1, 2 and 3 years. 5 per cent off for all cash. Carriages to show property free of charge.

Office, 910 Pa. ave. de27-12tf PROTEST BY THE FRIARS. Religious Orders in the Philippines

Oppose American Rule. LONDON, May 12.- The heads of the reigious orders in the Philippines, according to a dispatch from Rome to the Daily Mail, have presented a petition to the pope, in which they protest against the "American

The religious orders in the Philippines, The religious orders in the rhimppines, under Spanish rule, exercised a most potent influence both in a civil and religious sense. Especially was this true in the rural communities, where the Spanish were too few in number to assert their authority. The friars dominated the natives with almost inquisitorial severity, levying tithes most inquisitorial severity, levying tithes at their pleasure and enriching their orders by means and methods that would not be sanctioned in other lands.

atrocities."

It is estimated that these orders owned property in the islands to the amount of $200,000,000, a large portion of which came $20,000,000, a large portion of which came to them through confiscation. It had been the practice of the Spanish government, in the case of natives who rebelled against the constituted authority, to confiscate their property and turn it over to the religious orders. In time the sum total of this source of wealth agerceated an immerse sum and orders. In time the sum total of this source of wealth aggregated an immense sum and included many of the finest plantations throughout the archipelago. The status of these orders under American rule yet remains to be determined. It would seem proper to say, however, that many of their prerogatives will be taken away, as being totally incompatible with the American system of governor. This is pretty well understood by the heads of the religious orders, hence their attitude toward the new possessors of the islands. The friars are many thousands in number.

INQUIRY INTO TRUSTS

Further Testimony Given Before the Industrial Commission.

Mr. Lee Thinks the Standard Oil Com pany a Monopoly-Remedy Suggested.

The investigation into the trusts was continued by the industrial commission yesterday afternoon after The Star's report of the proceedings was closed. Mr. J. W. Lee, representing the independent oil companies, continued his testimony. The production of oil in 1870 was 7,000,000 barrels, while in 1800 it was 35,000,000. This great increase in production was not the cause of the decrease in the price, for the reason that the consumption had increased equally with the production. About twenty-five per cent of all the production of oil is in the hands of the Standard, but the most of 60,000 wells of the country are operated and owned by men who produce less than ten barrels a day. Seventy-five per cent of the oil is produced by these small independent owners. In ten years he thought there was more money put in the oil wells than was taken out of them. The investment in the face of low prices was the result of the fact that low prices was the result of the fact that there is an element of speculation in the business. If an unusually productive well could be struck it would pay very big profits in spite of the low price. But the wells had not reached the expectation of Wages of Employes.

The wages of employes in the oil business are not as high as they were before the Standard Oil Company went into the field. This was possibly because before the Standard went into the business it was a new industry, and new industries generally pay high prices. He would do justice to the Standard people and say they pay good wages now, but not greater than are paid by the independent operators. They pay very high salaries to their special em-

Mr. Lee said he considered the Standard Oil Company a monopoly, and that it exists in defiance of the laws of the United States. It produces but 90 per cent of the output of refined oil, but that production gave it the power to fix the price of the entire product as well as if it produced it all. Since 1895 it simply says what it will give for crude oil, without recard to any market price. regard to any market price.

A Remedy Suggested. As a remedy for the prevention of trusts

Mr. Lee suggested a law making destructive competition a criminal offense. He thought the fear of imprisonment would intimidate some of them. Nothing had done so much as destructive competition done so much as destructive competition to prevent progress and fairness. The law could be passed by the states, and in case of prosecution the prices charged for years could be used as evidence. He would also suggest that the capital of all corporations, except those of a public or a quast-public nature, should be limited to $1,000,000. He thought that something of this kind was necessary, and that if a remedy was not found the country would be rulned by combinations of capital detrimental to the public interests. Under the present conditions personal ambition was stifled and many men were being kept out of business because of the existence of these combinations.

TO BRING DREYFUS BACK.

Escort Sets Out From St. Nazaire for the Prisoner. PARIS, May 12.—The Petit Bleu says today that ten members of the Republican Guard and four gendarmes left St. Nazaire, loye's note replying to Major Hartmann's deposition, in which Delloye cited three documents showing attempts on the part of the German general staff, between August 6 and September 27, 1894, to obtain infor-mation regarding French artillery, infor-mation much more important than that matton much more important than that contained in the bordereau. Gen. Delloye admitted that these unconnected acts were not committed by Dreyfus.

Commenting upon this, the Figaro points out that it is quite sufficient to prove that Dreyfus was not the author of the bordercau. At first the statement was made that the bordercau was written in April, 1894. Then Gens. Gonse, De Pellieux and Zurlinden insisted that it was written about linden insisted that it was written about the beginning of September, a date confirmed by Gen. Roget and Capt. Cuignet.

After summing up the evidence tending to show Esterhazy's guilt and the failure of the general staff to develop any susplcious details in the life of Dreyfus, the Figaro gives an extract from the deposition of M. Lepine, prefect of police of Paris, before the united chambers of the court before the united chambers of the court:
"When asked by Gen. Mercier about the private life of Dreyfus, M. Lepine said he reported that Dreyfus did not attend clubs, did not gamble, and did not spend his money with improper female compan-ions. The report was handed to Lieut. Col. Henry, who suppressed it." The Petit Journal prints letters exchanged between M. Delcasse, the foreign minister, and M. de Freycinet, who recently resigned the war office portfolio, on the subject of the evidence given by Capt. Cuignet and its denial in respect of the statements reflecting upon the foreign office, which was given by M. Paleologue, whom M. Delcasse deputed to correct the inaccuracies of Cuiganet. From them the paper concludes that the resignation of M. de Freycinet was due to a disagreement with M. Delcasse convergence.
